

Every major project reshaping West Palm Beach right now

Jake Nicholas

This article is continuously updated to reflect the latest developments and provide additional context as projects progress.

Key Points

- West Palm Beach is seeing a surge of luxury residential towers and entirely new districts all rising at once
- Related Ross has committed over $10 billion to development in West Palm Beach
- Dozens of more approved projects are currently being monitored and will be added as they progress.
- Explore all of these projects in our interactive Map of Tomorrow

Rising next door is Alba Palm Beach, which is set to welcome residents this year. Led by Kenny Baboun, along with BGI Companies and Blue Road, Alba is a 22-story waterfront tower offering just 55 private residences, each framed by expansive terraces and unobstructed views of the water. Designed by Spina O'Rourke + Partners, is one of the first new residential towers to take shape in the North End's renaissance.